NEW DANIEL BOOKS of Lasting Interest

FICTION

FLASH : A MOORLAND MYSTERY, by Judge Ruegg, K.C.

7/6 net

In the thorough-going manner of the Victorian novelist Judge Ruegg is almost the only writer of the present day who merits attention. When analysed his plots are comparatively simple but always surprising. They are elaborated by a wealth of incident and a profusion of unperplexing characters, made real and living.

Other novels by the same author :

"John Clutterbuck : The Mystery of the 21st of July." (2/6)
"A Staffordshire Knot : or The Two Houses." (2/6)

THE BALANCE : A NOVEL, by John Smellie Martin

7/6 net

A strong and moving story of Scots folk—their workaday toil and their holiday pleasures, their hopes and their fears, their jealousies and their loves.

THE WITCHEENS : A TALE OF MAYNOOTH AND LONDON, by Richard Francis Malone

7/6 net

The author employs a wide canvas for his background, which includes the Easter Rebellion, the Black-and-Tan days and wartime London. The narrative, which is charged with a vein of occult significance, moves parallel with the epic phases of modern Irish history.

The C. W. Daniel Company, 46 Bernard Street, London, W.C.1

A CALL FROM THE PAST: A NOVEL by
Mrs. E. de M. Rudolf 7/6 net

An amazing story of ancient Egypt and modern England.
"Out of the common but not highbrow." The Weekly Scotsman says:

"The strings have been strummed on the love, the sex, and the emotional themes till they are worn thin. Mrs. E. de M. Rudolf chooses another, and plays upon it with skilful effect—the inter-relation of the material and the spiritual, the present and the past—. . . It is a weird story, but very fascinating."

CLEVELAND HALL: A STORY OF SCHOOL LIFE,
by Bedford Pollard 3/6 net

This is pre-eminently a book for boys—one for a present or a prize. The Edinburgh Evening News says:

"There are books which boys read through and cast aside; others which they read through, perhaps again, then cherish in a favoured corner of the bookshelf. . . Such a volume is Cleveland Hall, a thrilling story of school life assured of finding its mark."

WHO MADE THE CAKE? AND OTHER STORIES,
by Harry Thomas 3/6 net

Written by the author for his own children, to answer some of the many questions that he knew were sure to arise in their minds. The simplest language and the most familiar illustrations.

CHEAP EDITIONS

THE BEATING HEART, by Victoria Cross 3/6 net

Seven complete stories illustrating that the heart can beat with Love, Desire, Sympathy, Hate, Fear, Pity and Indignation.

CRUELTY: The Story of a Peculiar Young Man, by Patrick Braybrooke.
2/6 net

A novel which makes people think and talk.

ASHES OF ROSES: A novel about life in Australia, by Francia Hope.
2/6 net

The C. W. Daniel Company, 46 Bernard Street, London, W.C.1

A MODERN LILLIPUT: A history of the re-discovery of the Lilliput Archipelago and what has been happening there, by David Alec Wilson 2/6 net

"A book to read and chuckle over . . . a humorous but sound exposition of the Confucian philosophy and an argument for world peace, by an author who has been too wise to copy Swift's method."

DICKENS' MYSTERY OF EDWIN DROOD. Completed by
A Loyal Dickensian. 3/6 net

"One of the best attempts yet made to complete the unfinished novel."
T.P.'s and Cassells.

DRAMA

NIGHT, by Marcel Martinet 5/- net

Translated from the French by Eden and Cedar Paul. Illustrated with five woodcuts. A strong play upon War.

CHARLOTTE CORDAY: A PLAY IN FIVE ACTS,
by John Klein 3/6 net

"It is a relief to turn to the work of Mr. Klein. He can tell a story, he is seriously concerned to discover truth by his portraiture"—Times Literary Supplement.

By the same author:
"Shelley," a Play (6/-).

TO CURE WAR, by W. Winslow Hall, M.D. 1/- net

An old prescription freshly dispensed in a series of Playlets.

PURPOSE

A Quarterly Magazine

Edited by JOHN MARLOW

SIXPENCE NET; POSTAGE 1d.; YEARLY 2s.

¶ The spirit that is PURPOSE is the Spirit of the Age that Must be Born. Men know themselves to be purposeful ; to have purpose in their slightest action. The new spirit knows them to be capable of DIVINE purpose in every action—in a word to be children of God, taking upon themselves the conscious direction of the World. Their divine purpose is to be HUMAN. ¶ We shall seek to give expression in PURPOSE to the manifold forms of that consciousness. Whatever is animated by that wind will be focussed in PURPOSE to the point of clarity. As far as in us lies, nothing that has not that dynamism shall find place in its pages.

THE POLITICS OF THE ARYAN ROAD

BY Capt. A. G. PAPE

An unusual and distinctly thought-provoking book, evidenced by the fact that Conservatives call it Socialistic and Socialists, Conservative ; Liberals in turn say that it is extremist on both wings. But as one reviewer says "quite a number of people who think that high ideals and good times cannot exist together might be converted—and edified !—by this little treatise."

INCISIVE LOGIC—THOUGHT-PROVOKING

CONDITIONS OF SOCIAL WELFARE

By JOHN BOWEN

3/6 net

CONTENTS

- I. INTRODUCTION.
- II. COMPETITION: What it is. The difficulties that would arise and the benefits that would be lost in its absence.
- III. COMPETITION AND DISTRIBUTION: How Competition makes a perfect distribution of commodities possible.
- IV. COMPETITION AND THE PRODUCTION OF COMMODITIES: How Competition makes a perfect production of commodities possible.
- V. COMPETITION AND THE PRODUCTION OF PRODUCTIVE FACTORS: How Competition makes a perfect production of productive factors (capital) possible.
- VI. THE SAME PRINCIPLE considered under somewhat different and wider aspects.
- VII. STATE CONTROL AND SAVING: The State must see that a proper amount of the annual income is saved.
- VIII. STATE CONTROL AND THE PROPER DIVISION OF THE MONEY THAT IS SPENT: The State must see that the money that is to be spent is properly divided.
- IX. STATE CONTROL AND POPULATION: The State must see that every class of the Community increases at a rate that is consistent with the well-being of the whole.
- X. CONCLUDING REMARKS: Social Welfare needs no greater effort than a great War.

CONDITIONS OF SOCIAL WELFARE

3/6 net

¶ The argument of this book is that competition, other things equal, is beneficial ; that it automatically regulates production and keeps it at its highest pitch ; that the people who earn money are the best fitted to spend it ; that no one should be unemployed ; that low wages should be subsidised and that land should be nationalised.
 ¶ The author believes that the plan worked out by him would produce all the benefits of Communism with none of its drawbacks, plus all the benefits of Capitalism with none of its evils.

THE ORIGINAL CHRISTIANITY

This book has been translated into and published in French, German and Dutch

BY E. FRANCIS UDNY, M.A.

"Mr. Udny has in able manner given two very concise works (The Original Christianity, and The Later Incarnations of Francis Bacon) to the thoughtful public. Their reading will clear the veil from the eyes of many a reader—his spiritual vision is remarkable.

"The Later Incarnations of Francis Bacon reads like an interesting novel, but with the added advantage that the subject-matter is true. It is a fascinating thought that by the trained seer the whole of one's previous incarnations can be read and recorded in history."—Ben Bayliss.

"Under the powerful impression of your book (The Original Christianity) . . . I feel it my duty to tell you that I owe you one of the greatest experiences of my life. There are no words to express the joy I felt when reading your revelations. Your book shows an admirable knowledge and sureness. It is a mighty new wave of occult wisdom, and it is one of the signs of His coming that such a wisdom can be given now to mankind."—Walter Klein (Dr.), Vice-President of the Austrian Section of the Theosophical Society.

SOME PRESS COMMENTS

"A rare type of book (The Original Christianity) well and clearly written, logical, coherent, and stimulative of thought."—James Scott in the "Theosophical Review," March 1925.

"(The Original Christianity) may be heartily recommended to those who are striving to gain a fuller comprehension of the marvellous teaching given by that Divine Figure for whose coming . . . so many are eagerly looking."—E. M. Whyte, in the "Herald of the Star," April 1925.

THE ORIGINAL CHRISTIANITY
BY E. FRANCIS UDNY, M.A.

¶ Gives the Christ's teaching—no longer, alas, in our Gospels—on the duty of love to animals and abstinence from flesh-eating. It interprets the Miraculous Draught of Fishes (Luke v, 1-11) as a carefully veiled account of the removal of that teaching in the early centuries, and gives the hidden meaning of the Gospel story as an allegory of the perfecting of man. ¶ Mrs. Ella Lipsett, of Kew Gardens, Washington; D.C., U.S.A. writes: " (this) is the most valuable book I ever read . . . a door into a new experience . . . (it) clears up all disputes and uncertainties . . . a Godsend . . . now I understand."

"Entertaining Story."—Daily Sketch.

"The story is well told."—Evening Mail.

"The author succeeds at moments in lifting his story to thrilling heights . . . one character in particular, Rory Kendy . . . stands out as a masterly creation . . . the atmosphere of Easter Week in Dublin is recaptured brilliantly . . ."—Irish Independent.

"Here are two colleens whose 'witchery' includes that of occult significance. . . There is plenty of incident on a crowded stage."—Light.

"Excellent plot . . . genuine thrill . . . more interesting reading than 95 per cent. of the English fiction published these times. . ."—The Irish Nation.

" . . . Almost incredibly dramatic plot. . . It is intensely interesting. I sat up till three o'clock in the morning to finish it. . . A good book to take on holiday; we need such books badly in Ireland. . ."—An Phoblacht.

"A well-written love-story—with enough drama, adventure and humour to make it interesting to all."—Publishers' Circular.

"Some vivid descriptions."—Times Literary Supplement.

"A very unusual type of novel . . . not in any sense a political novel . . . an arresting story."—Scotsman.

" . . . Psychical episodes introduced with powerful effect."—Birmingham Gazette.

"Norma and Dorothy Glenson, two winsome Irish colleens, are attractive figures in 'The Witcheeens.'"—Sheffield Mail.

"The action of the story takes place during the years 1915-1921, and a very accurate description is given of events in Ireland during that time."—The Freeman.

THE WITCHEEENS

By RICHARD FRANCIS MALONE

7/6 net

¶ This is the story of two winsome Irish girls, Norma and Dorothy Gleson, whose lives are strangely interwoven, in apparent fulfilment of a weirdly-made prophecy, with the life of Phil Kendy. From the peace of rural Ireland, the sisters and their friend are plunged into the stress and turmoil of the fateful and hectic war years. Tricks of an elfish destiny bear the youth from the shelter of his beloved Alma Mater and fight against his attaining the goal of his aspirations. The narrative, which is charged with a vein of occult significance, moves parallel with the epic phases of modern Irish history.

¶ The author employs a wide canvas for his background, which includes the Easter Rebellion, the Black-and-Tan days and war-time London. With the coming of the truce we find revealed the tragic but not too unhappy fate of one of the sisters, while for the other there breaks delightfully through the vanishing clouds the sunshine of a great joy.
